Children can write the number and then match the objects with the correct number word. Click here to print pdf Preview of the worksheet before printing and select only the worksheet page to print (no need to print the instructions or web page url) Save The way we write and pronounce numbers is quite different from English, but it is still so important to give or get some personal information. In this lesson, we will learn how to spell and pronounce the Spanish numbers 1-20, los números del uno al vein. You will find a complete list of these numbers, as well as some rules to form some of them and remember them easily. The vocabulary will be used in sentences and questions so you can see how useful it is for different situations in the language. How to count up to 20 in Spanish - Spanish Numbers 1-20LOS NÚMEROS or Spanish numbers can be divided into two main categories: cardinal and regular number. This course is about cardinal numbers, which are often used to share or receive personal information about ages, phone numbers and many other things. Spanish numbers 1-20 are written in a different way, so we have to memorize them as they form the basis for more complex numbers. UNO is a special case, as it changes to UN when used before a male noun like CARRO (car), which means it would be right to say UN CARRO, but not UNO CARRO. The following image shows how to spell numbers in Spanish from one to twenty-one. Los números en español del 1 al 21How to spell and pronounce Spanish numbers 1-10: list and suggestionsI will learn how to count to 20 in Spanish by presenting them in two groups of examples. Below, there are a few questions and suggestions with Spanish numbers 1-10. Listen Listen their pronunciation and pay attention to the way that theme pronouns and possessive adjectives are used in some of the sentences. In addition these suggestions include some common irregular verbs such as TENER (to have) and HAY (exists/exists). The words in bold are números. Tap PLAY to listen to the examples. UNO – Tengo una noticia importante para ti! have important news for youDOS – Tú tienes dos hermanas. – Yo tengo tres mascotasCUATRO – Nosotros tenemos cuatro estudiantesCINCO – Ella tiene cinco tareas nuevasSEIS – Mi hija tiene seis años de edad My daughter is six years oldSIETE - El siete es mi número favoritoSeven is my favorite numberOCHO - Hay ocho tazas aquíThere are eight cups hereNUEVE - Hay nueve personas en la habitación. There are nine people in the room. DIEZ - Solo tenemos diez minutosWe have ten minutes left. Making suggestions with numbers in Spanish 11-20: list and suggestions The last team to complete the list of our Spanish numbers 1-20 are those between 11 and 20, los números del once al vein. They must be memorized as well, but there is a simple plan to follow for some numbers, particularly from 16 to 19. All you need to do is join the DIECI prefix- plus an SEIS, SIETE, OCHO or NUEVE. The dieciséis number is special though because it needs a tilde above é. The diagram below shows how to pronounce and spell Spanish numbers 11-20 and shows how they can be used in important sentences and questions. Again, you should use the verbs TENER and HAY in these examples. ONCE – Él tiene once juguetesDOCE – El perro tiene doce añosThe dog is 12-year-old TRECE – Yo solo tengo trece dólares! I have only thirteen dollarsCATORCE – Ellos tienen once nietosThey have four fourteen grandchildrenQUINCE – Yo compré quince libros. DIECISEIS – ¿Ya tienes dieciséis años? DIECISIETE - Yo tengo diecisiete años. I'm seventeen years old. DIECIOCHO – Nuestra clase tiene dieciocho estudiantesOur class has ejiene studentsDIECINUEVE – Hay diecinueve gatos en el refugioReare nine cats in the shelterVEINTE – Ellos tienen vein aves en el refugioThey have twenty birds in the shelterThis is the end of these lessons. Hopefully, you'll remember most Spanish numbers 1-20. If not, you can always go back to these tutorials and review. In the next two courses, we will learn numbers in Spanish from 21 to 100 and then numbers over 100. Before you go, try yourself with this cool quiz. I'm not going to let you get out of here. Related Spanish worksheets: Today Sra. Morato and I have some free Spanish worksheets numbers - Los Números. There is a Spanish number reference page with numbers 1 through 30. See her website for more details! HomeschoolSpanishCurriculum.comSpanish Course for Elementary My Girls ED and DD started its Spanish course for the municipal years (K-Gr 6) last fall and are really enjoying it! A few weeks ago, I shared the amazing story of how Sra. Morato and I met. Since my children have learned German as their foreign language, I never thought about adding to another language. But as I met Sra. Morato and saw the course they were building firsthand I asked my children if they were interested in adding to another language. Both girls said to me, yes! Absolutely! That's what's so cool about being homeschoolers! We can This! My girls love their Spanish class with Sra. It's Morato. And luckily for me, it's a category I don't need to participate in (since they don't speak Spanish) - you know, other than overseeing that they do their job - video tutorials, flashcards, games and make sure they attend their face-to-face (online) classes at the right time. Just so you know, my girls are 9 and 12. The rudimentary Spanish class is a great fit for them. Here is a link to a post I wrote I wrote the Municipal Spanish Program on how it works and why my girls love it. ?Includes video games, online flashcards and games, printable worksheets, flashcards & gamesweekly group (That's what my girls do; they meet every week every Tuesday with the same group of kids & with Sra. Morato to tell the new material and talk about practice.) Or there's an independent version of the Primary Hispanic Program that includes online community support. I've helped make worksheet sets for the elementary Spanish class. Let me give you a sneak peek of some of the worksheets in the Spanish primary school! It was fun to make these bright, colorful worksheets! We try to include corresponding pages, flash cards, games and activities! @Homeschool Spanish 1 and 2 (Full year online courses): You can also learn more about Homeschool Sra.
